Marjorie Alvina (Hutton) Guisinger

Vivian Hutton, Hugo High School Graduate: 1934

1928 The Hutton family arrived in Oregon via automobile (Model-T) from North Dakota in 1928.

Hugo High School was Marjorie Hutton's best and most enjoyable high school. Her first year of Hi school was at Merlin, Oregon and her second year was at Grants Pass, Oregon.

Earl Brown was the school teacher during Marjorie's senior year at Hugo Hi in Hugo, Oregon. He was one of the finest teachers she ever had. She and all of her fellow students were well acquainted with Mr. Brown's father who was called "Strawberry Brown" because he raised strawberries. He also played the fiddle at the local community dances. Earl's brother, Orla, was 10 years younger than Earl and also a teacher.

Marjorie Hutton: 1934

1934 Hugo High School Graduation Vivian and Marjorie Hutton both graduated from Hugo High School (Hugo Hi), Vivian in 1933 and Marjorie in 1934. There younger brother, Paul, was also a Hugo Hi graduate, perhaps 1938.

Hugo High School: 1932- 33 & 1933-34

Vivian Hutton. As a single woman graduate of Hugo Hi Vivian worked at "Hornings Shack" in Grants Pass. It was a confectionary store and ice cream parlor. Later Vivian married someone she and Marjorie knew when (or from) the time Vivian was fourteen years old. They were the same age. At 17 years old he became a Navy man and made it a career as he advanced to Chief Petty Officer. This was not his intention at the time he first enlisted. Vivian and her husband had two boys and a girl. And, of course, Vivian moved around a lot the first few years. Her youngest son died a few years ago and the eldest lives in Portland. Her daughter lives in the Medford area. Sisters Marjorie and Vivian stayed good friends down through the years.
